This action is taken upon application of the Indians of the territory to the government to protect their property, which it is required to do by a treaty which stipulates that the government shall protect the five civilized nribes of the Indian territory against domestic strife and hostile invasion, and to guarantee them the peaceable enjoyment of their country.

The Cook Outlaws Raided Stores and Postoffice at Tallala.

Little Ruck, Ark., Oct. 23.-Tallula, a station on the Kansas and Ārkansas Valley rallroad, a branch of the Missouri Pacific system, 43 miles west of Wagoner, I. T., was cleared out by the Cook band of outlaws at 8 o'clock last night. They reached fown armed to the teeth, and proceeded at once to rob stores right and left. Every store in the place was visited and the proprietors compelled at the point of revolvers and Winchesters to turn over their cash. The postoffice was also robbed of stamps and a small amount of money. While the Landits were in the postoffice easilound passenger train No. 131 pulled in. The trainmen were soon notified of the game's presence, and the train was started out at once, it is believed here that the gang intensied to hold up the train. Neal Pryor of Fort. Smith who arrived here to-might gives additional particulurs. He said the bandits, numbering at least 10, entered the town boldly and made no effort to conceal their identity. None were masks. From reports of their description they were undoubtedly the same gang that held up the Missouri Pacific train at Correta siding Saturday night. Tallala is a town of a few stores and a postoffice. A BAD VAN FROM SOULDER,

The Coroner's Verdict on "Dutch" Henry Was Accidental Death - Mining News-Rich Sanaw Mountain Float.

Special to The Gazette: Cripple Creek, Oct. 23.—The man who was shot in an alley here last night has to-day been recognized as Tom McBride of Boulder. Mr. and Mrs. Shafer, who are now residents of Cripple Creek, say that he worked for them for some time, and other parties also identified him as the same man. He is recognized as an all-round tough and hard case generally. He has been in camp about two months. The first reports of the shooting last night were slightly erroneous, for after the body was washed it was found that one of the shots penetrated the heart, went round the ribs and came out of the back, and the other, which caused death went right in the mouth, knocking out two teeth and entering the brain. There was another bullet wound on the body, but it was an old one. Coroner Marione will hold the inquest to-merrow. The dead man has a brother living in Arizona, and his parents reside at Copper Rock, Colo. Coroner Marlow held an inquest on the remains found in the shaft yesterday. and the evidence went to show that a man of the name of Pat Barry, formerly a wealthy resident of Shellsburg, Wis., lost his fortune a few years ago, and then became slightly demented. He eventually found his way to this place, and here he was known as "Dutch Henry," and as far as could be judged this is the man. The coroner's jury rendered a verdict that he met his death by accidentally falking in the shaft.

In the Mile Straightaway. Buffalo, Oct. 23.-The straight-away mile record still remains unshaken, notwithstanding two attempts by John S. Johnson under trying conditions. On the first trial the tire on his machine gave out at the quarter pole and on the second attempt a new tire on the front wheel again went to pieces. After repairs it was too dark to make another attempt. The quadruplet, however, went a fast mile, covering the distance in 1:41 4-5. The team consisted of Murphy, Louis Callahan, Saunders and A. D. Kennedy, Their time is just 3-5 of a second outsideof the mile made by Ralph and Schofield on a tandem in England on a straight-away course, and is the only authentic account of a straight course record. This will unquestionably be beaten by a big margin before Johnson and his mates leave the city.

OCCA'S REPORT

The Official Story of the Denver Court Fonse War.

DESTRUCTION THREATENED.

The Danger to Which Waite Exposed the City - The Call for Federal Troops How the Governor Changed His Mind.

The stirring events of the past year in the new department of the Colorado are described by Gen. McCook in his annual report to the adjutant general of the army. This department, consisting of the State of Colorado and the territories of Utah, Arizona and New Mexico, includes in its area nearly half a million square miles of the wildest country in the United States, and contains a population of less than, a million whites and about (40,000) Indians. It was established by direction of the President July 1, 1893, and is guarded by 13 military posts. The condition of affairs existing in Colorado from the organization of the department to the present time, in the opinion of Gen. McCook, displays the wisdom of the authorities in having moved the headquarters from Los Angeles to Den-

The Court House Affair.

Gen. McCook says: "On the afternoon of March 15, 1894, serious disorder was threatened by the assembling under arms of the local State troops in the vicin ty the City Hall at Denver to be employed by the Governor against the sheriff of the county; the city police force and several hundred deputy sheriffs, who had taken possession of the City Hall and provided themselves with arms, ammunition and dynamite, in resistance to an effort made by the Governor to seat two newly appointed members of the fire and police board of the city of Denver. Whether or not such an emergency existed as to Avarrant the Governor, under the constitution and laws of the State, in calling out the national guard; whether military force was resorted to by him simply for the purpose of ousting the old board and seating the new, or whether the executive power was not entirely exhausted in the act of appointment, leaving to the courts the duty of seating the new appointees, I did not feel called upon to consider. "It became apparent to me on the afternoon of March 5, from a personal observation of the bitter hostility of the contending factions, from the assembling of the troops by the Governor, the preparation of arms and dynamite by the opposing forces, and from the grave apprehension frequently expressed to me by representative professional and bustness men, that a collision was imminent at the City Hall and that the first shot would be the signal for a bloody riot to

The Arata Affair.

"These apprehensions were heightened by the recent experience of the city of the Arata affair, the details of which may be here referred to. A few days after my arrival in Denver in July last, a resident of the city by the name of Arata was arrested and confined in the county jail upon the charge of murder. A few hours later an immense mob numbering 10,000 of the worst elements then present in the city assembled about the jall, overpowered and intimidated the officers, battered down the doors with sledge hammers and crowbars and dragged the prisoner into the street. He was hurried to a tree near by, his clothes being torn off him by the infuriated mob. and hanged. As soon as, the body was drawn above the heads of the crowd. it was riddled with bullets. The lifeless body was then taken down, the rope still about the neck, and dragged by the rabble through the principal streets with every mark of indignity and outrage. The fury of the mob having finally spent itself, the body was again hanged to a telegraph pole on one of the most conspicuous places in the city. Throughout the whole affair the police seemed to be paralyzed and entirely unable to cope with the mob and the city was filled with the most serious alarm. The following day the presidents of three national banks that are United States depositaries, called upon me to report that they had information which they deemed reliable that the following night an attempt would be made to break into and loot their banks. I notified these gentlemen that I would inform myself if such conditions existed, and would be ready to protect the United States property in the city of Denver, including the money, amounting to about $250,000, deposited by the Government in these banks. The troops at Fort Logan were held in readiness and ransportation prepared to bring them to the city in the performance of this duty, if found nec-

The City in Danger.

"When, therefore, the difficulty between the Governor and the police board arose and was brought to a crisis by the Hovernor calling out the national guard it was very apparent, from the extreme tension of public feeling, that a single shot would have precipitated an attack on the Governor's person and a repetition of scenes even more disgraceful than the Arata tragedy. In view of this state of feeling, the experience of the city in the Arata affair and the unfortunate industrial depression and distress which prevailed during the past winter, coupled with the fact that the entire police force of the city was withdrawn from its legitimate duty and assemb ed around about the City Hall, I felt satisfied that an open rupture would be followed by the looting and burning of the business portion of the city in which are lo-cated the United States mint, Federal hullding and the several depositaries of Government funds,

"After the national guard had taken a position in front of the City Hal, where a throng of several thousand people, including the most abandoned and reckless element of the population had congregated, committees of the Chamber of Commerce passed to and fro between the sheriff's party and the Governor striving to secure a suspension of hostilities and to gain time for cooler counsels to prevail; but both sides were inflexable and the Governor's order was given that if the City Hall did not surrender in 30 minutes the troops were to open with infantry and artiflery fire. It was at this critical juncture that at about 5:20 p. m., I received the following : letter from the Governor of Colorado, Davis H. Waite:

A Demand for Troops.

f.ce. I can enforce the laws, but not without great b'oodshed, I call upon you, as Governor of the State, to assist me in preserving order and preventing tains or high points from which to bloodshed. DAVIS H. WAITE, signal.

" Governor of Colorado." Gen. McCook, preceiving that the property of the United States was now in serious ; eopardy, the mint and Federa building being but a few blocks from the reach the city in time to render effective a horse, that they should be so mounted aid after a riot or a fire had once begun, telegraphed an order to the commanding office at Fort Logan, 10 miles distant, directing him to report with five companies with a hundred rounds of ammunition per man, by special train which would leave at once. At the same time he notified Governor Waite that in pursuance of his demand he had ordered the troops at Fort Logan to come at once to the city, for the sole purpose of preserving peace, and recommended that an order be issued returning the national guard to their armory. The Gov- corps can be made of present practical ernor replied, declining to remove the profit as the most available means of national guard, and asked for a conference with the General, who went to the Governor's house, which was guarded by detachment of militia,

Explaining the Law.

"Being admitted to the presence of the Governor," Gen. McCook says, "I at once proceeded to explain to him what authority I had under the law for the use of the Pnited States troops, what I could do, and what I could not do. He asked me to assist him in taking possession of the City Hall. I told him I could not do so. He then asked me if I could not hold my troops in reserve for the national guard to fall back upon in case they were repulsed. I replied: Governor stated that he had received several letters that day threatening his life, and that he feared assassination, and to prevent it he had placed a detail from the national guard in front of his

The following morning the Governor called at Gen. McCook's headquarters. The General carefully explained to him that under the law United States troops could be used only for the protection of was imminent. The Governor remarked any such purpose, and requested the General to withdraw the troops. Gen. put that request in writing, and a few moments later received the following communication from him;

Waite Withdraws His Requester State of Colorado, Executive Department, Denver, March 16, 1891.-A. McD. McCook, Brig. General U. S. A., Department of the Colorado: Yesterday, about 5 p. m., on notice that you had announced that you would put seven companies of United States troops in Denver at my call, I interred that your object was to assist the State in the enforcement of the laws. As you were present in Denver and knew that the city companies of the national guard had been called out by me as commander-in-chief, and were at the time on duty in the streets near the City Hall, I therefore requested that you move the United States troops to the city, and was careful to specify that the object of the cal for the United States troops was that they might assist the State troops in the execution of the laws and preventing bloodshed. In conversation with you this morning, at your office, I find that, in your opinion, you have no such right. therefore most respectfully withdraw my request for the United States troops.

DAVIS H. WAITE. Governor of Colorado. Gen. McCook calls attention to the diference in language in the two different letters that he received from Governor Waite, and questions that official's veracity in plain words. Through the intervention of the supreme court the trouble was quickly settled and the troops returned to their station at Fort Logan.

The Railway Riots.

On July 1st the insurrection of the railway employees began. Special trains carried troops along the railway lines throughout the department, most of the roads being in the hands of government receivers. Serious riots were quelled at Trinidad, Raton, Las Vegas, Pueblo, Grand Junction and other points. The strikers cut the telegraph wires in all directions, and did everything in their power to prevent dispatch of troops, but Special to The Gazette: General McCook during most of July cept the greater part of his forces from all the posts constantly in motion, and at the time of reporting they were still guarding property against lawlessness. During the year there were several minor Indian depredations. General McCook strongly urges strengthening of Fort Logan, near Denver. Judging the future by what has occurred in the past, he trinks this post should have more cavalry, and if there is any objection to the expense involved in moving the required re-inforcements from Fort Bowie, which, in his opinion ought to be abandoned, he proposes to march the troops of cavary from thereto Fort Logan. The distance, 716 miles, he says, could be made in 40 days. Fort Stanton could a so be advantageously abandoned to add to Fort Logan's effi-

The signal corps in Gen. McCook's command is the most famous in the world. It was here, a month ago, that the great feat of heliographing a message 183 miles was accomplished. Capt. Glassford, the department signal officer, recommends through Gen. McCook the adoption of the bicycle in the army, especially for the sergeants of the signal

A Word for Bieveles.

The report states that the use of the bicycle for military purposes has passed the experimental stage; that most, if not all, of the European armies have adopted it for certain of their forces, and, while the question seems unsettled whether troops mounted on bicycles can successfully take the place of mounted infantry or calvary, the consumsus of authoritative opinion is that, as a substitute for the horse, for the men engaged in signalling and the allied cuties of reconnoitering and keeping communication open the bicycle is an eminent success. As a mount it has the special advantages that it requires no food nor water and ittle or no care; it is noiseless in its movement; it is no more, but rather less likely than a horse to get out of order; it can average double the distance in a day that a horse can. The distance that can be made by a bleyofist under favorable conditions is vastly in "Denver, Colo., March 15, 7894.—Gen. excess of the possibilities of a horse, while McCook, U. S. Republicans Address a Big Crowd at Cripple Creek While the Populists are Badly Left

Special to The Gazette: Cripple Creek, Oct. 20.-The Republicans held a monster open air meeting to-night at the flat-pole. It had been their intention to do so inside the Pike's Peak hotel, which had been engaged for the occasion, but by some means or other the Populit had outgeneralled them and got there first. It was better so, however, for the crowd desirous of hearing the Republicans could not possibly have got into the hotel rotunda, and the slim crowd, of 30 or 40 Pops who listened to Minnie Sales had it all to themselves. Forty persons is no crowd in the Pike's Peak rotunda. Such a number may be seen any night there.

The Republican meeting was opened by Mr. C. G. Hathaway, who in a short speech introduced Hon. Judd Brush, the candidate for Lieutenant Governor. He made a short, plain, convincing speech, and was followed by Harry E. Mulnix, the candidate for State treasurer. Mr. Mulnix was very enthusiastically received, and seems to be a favorite. His speech was brief.

Then came the orator of the evening, Bennétt avenue a crowd eager to hear the speaking,

"Oh, yes," pleasantly retorted the Student Traveler, "quite young enough to fight?"

Whereupon without further interruption he related the following inclients of the American Civil War,

Late one sultry July afternoon, as our forces were about going into camp for the night after a severe day's march over the hills of northwestern Georgia, our own company, Battery D. First Illinois light artillery, on account of some temporary obstruction to the forces in advance, had halted abreast of an imposing country mansion, where, to avoid only a slight detour, the marching columns had cut a ruinous roadway straight across the planter owner's beautiful gavdens and lawn.

The suppers and miners had demofished walls and fences. Fountains had been overturned and broken. Statuary lay prone beside pedestals or, in shatterpieces, had been crushed into the earth by the heavy wheels of transport haps 16 years-almost the image of my vine-laden summer houses were leveled fooking smile, half hidden by a wealth of as by a tempest; and costly shrubbery, golden brown curls) a face that looked care could not replace, had been uestimated like wayside words beneath the skles.

I was the guidon or color sergeant of the battery; at this time a lad of starcely 15 years of age. While valorous enough in the foolhardy way of youth to have won in a year's relentless service the liking of my officers and the friendship of my comrades, there was still a strain in me, unar countable to many about me, which revolted at the inhumanly needless distruction of war; which made mealmost traitorous in heart to the power lebin hour own flag, when it waved above indignity to the innocent or cruelty to the feeble and helpless; and which fired my heart with intelerable hatrid for thy own cause whenever f was corppolled to look upon the wicked and wan-

'Don't give way so, Little Buttons; don't!-" this being my nickname, friendlily bestowed by the battery boys, who were really fond of me, on account of my diminutive size. "Its a dreadful shaking up, to be sure; but I am considerably older than yourself and have seen longer service, I hope you won't mind my mentioning that I have thought it all out more dispassionately."

"Oh, no, old Charlie!" "One good thing'll come of it, anyhow; the North and the South'll get a permanent introduction to one another that'll lead to lasting brotherhood and respect; believe me, Little Buttons!"

"Oh, but old Charlle, the horror of it while it lasts! I don't mind fighting; sure! You know that. The needless suffering, the heartless crue ties and the wanton indignities and destruction, are what break my heart, old Charle, and sometimes make me long to sink into the sHent earth!"

Captain Cooper and the officers were already in their saddles. The postillion and gunners were sulkity creeping to their places. ## OUR DISTRICT SOMISEES.

It is difficult for any man who is not a Lawyer to appreciate the importance of choosing the right man for District Judge. and the right man also for District Attorney, at the coming election. In some respects the bouch of this district is one of the most difficult to fill in the whole of the United States, Containing, as it dues, the newest large mining camp in the country, new phases of mining litiga-You are restantly arising, which make it meanswary for the judge to do a good Geal more than look up decisions. For carne of the cares presented, there is no exact precedent; and the judge must be a man with such a knowledge of the law, and such a grasp of its fundamental grinciples, that he can make his own precedents. To do this requires a legal mind; a clear and cool head, a great capacity for analysis, an ability and a disposition for hard work, and a heap of hard common sense. Few men combine these qualifications to so eminent a degree as the distinguished parist whom we propose to promote from the district bench to the bench of the Supreme Court. Judge Campbel's name is known wherever mining law is studied, and his decisions are part of the neces-SELY education of every man who wishes to inform himself thoroughly in this great branch of jurisprudence.

In choosing his successor, we want, if we can get him, a man who possesses similar qualifications. Judge Harris has them. He is young, and he has not the wife experience of Judge Campbell; but he is a hard student, he has ability, and the capacity for taking pains, he keeps head clear, and he has the "horse sease" which is one of the most desirable qualifications of any judge. He possesses just those characteristics which go to the making of a judge of the best sort; and besides this, he has had an experience in the County Court which will be of the greatest value to him when he goes up higher. ## A CLERICAL OBSERVER.

The Rev. Wm. T. Patchell of Buffalo, N. Y., who has recently made a tour through this State, has written an article for the Buffalo Express, heautifully illustrated with pictures of some Western Slope views and products, Of political matters he says

"A tremendous fight is on in this State. The better, the conservative element feel that it is a fight for life. The radical anarchistic element, of which Governor Waite is the mouthpiece, seem to want nothing less than confusion and riot. They study, and work, and plan to redeem the Mrs. Peavy, who, has been nomnated for State Superintendent of Edueation, is an able woman who can make a strong fight for first place.

Rarely does it happen that a man so suddenly disappears from public sight as has the Rev. Myron Reed. He followed Governor Walte's 'blood to the bridles' speech with those of similar sentiments; culminating with his statement that "Christ was an anarchist." At this point he disappeared from view, and from his suddenly became one of the least respected. The Czarowitz is a more extraordinary young man even than had been supposed, We have it on what seems to be good authority that he absolutely refuses to take the succession to the throne, and prefers to have it go to his youngest brother. His second brother, Prince George, who is said to be the favorite of his parents and of the high officials of the Orthodox Church, has lately become an invalid, and it is doubtful whether he will live long.

The reason given in the cable dispatches for this remarkable decision by the young being the most popular man in the State man most concerned, is that he prefers not to occupy a station of such danger. on Tuesday night last, a brief but beautiful life on earth was ended. So sudden and unexpected was the death of Mrs Mary Hull Perkins that many of her friends, all of whom held her in loving esteem, learned for the first time of her illness, when informed that she was dead. To her fellow teachers, from whose association sne was separated but three short menths before to become a happy wife, and to her pupils who loved her, the shock of her death is terrible. The grief and anguish of the mother and sister in the severing bonds, whose strength and tenderness were alike unusual, are simply pitiful. To her de-voted husband the present is blackest desolation, and the future is without a

Even the casual acquaintance recognized in Mollie Hull, apart from her beautiful face and winsome manner, that which cannot be described, perhaps, but which is everywhere the stamp of a pure and exalted soul. This quality, which those of lower nature cannot assume and those of the higher cannot conceal, was her striking characteristic, even in childhood, and the promise of her youthful days had just begun its fait iful fulfillment in an exalted type of womanhood, when the veil is drawn and we see her no more. Mrs. Perkins possessed intellectual ability of very high order. Healing of the Leper. Only one incident of this your is related. A loathsome leper was made clean, like Naaman, whose Lesh became pure as a caile's. This was a parable of recembtion enacted before the eyes of the people. In the leprosy, a constitutional, inherited, loathsome, defiling, painful, contagious, permeating, incurable disease, was seen the type of all sin. cesus, in curing him, making him clean and pure, rejoining him to his sinc, showed that His work was to cleanse the soul from sin, and make it pure and Leavenly, and that the power which could cleaned the leper, could forgive and purify the sinner.

What a Populist Legislature Would Mean.

The election of a Populist legislature means the selection of Davis H. Walte to represent Colorado in the United States Senate for six years. It means the legalizing of a fraudulent attempt to swind.e the people of Colorado out of more than $30,000 for printing the constitutional amendments in a lot of nasty little advertising dodgers whose chief circulation is in the sewers. It means the passage of a deficiency bill by which several thousands of dollars will be taken from the tax-payers of Colorado to pay Holler Inspector Hegwer a second time for alleged inspection of boilers for which he has already collected a large sum of money from individual owners of boilers without rendering any value therefor or paying over the money or giving a accout thereof to the State Treasurer, as required by law. This, too, in spite of the fact that the Senate refused to confirm his appointment as inspector. These are only a few things that a Populist legislature would do to damage Colorado. -(Walsenburg World.

Concerning Lead.

This district is not so large a producer of lead as it has been in the past, but its output is constantly fluctuating, and will doubtless not soon be less than it is today. Our people have never favored the free entry of foreign lead, in competition with the product of their own mines, and most of the leading men of this district, Democrats as well as Republicans, are on record in the files of this journal, as being uncompromisingly opposed to the removal of the duty. No less a personage than the present Democratic candidate for Governor, Hon. Charles S. Thomas, in a letter addressed to The Chronicle. said that "if this or any future Congress shall reduce the tariff on lead, then goodby to the prosperity of Leadville, and, per consequence, of the State of Coloprobably continued for several weeks rade." This view was shared by Governor Grant, and by many other distinguished mining and smelting men of this and other districts, and few have taken a contrary view of the case. The mining and smelting men of Utah have also been uncompromisingly opposed to a removal of the duty or to a modification of it. And yet in view of this almost universal sentiment of the silver States in favor of protection to the lead industry, Colorado's two Populist Congressmen voted to take off the tax and open the gates to the flood of peon-produced lead of Mexico and Spain. They try to explain their vote on free wool with the fallacious plea that foreign fine wools are needed to mix with the coarse product of Colorado sheep, but they have no such excuse to give the miners for their vote in favor of free lead,-(Leadville Herald Democrat.

A Story from Louistans.

The political upheaval in Louisiana, brought about by the sugar quarrel in Congress, is drawing into public view again some of the genuine "characters" of the State. Dudley Coleman, whom the Republicans of the Second district have nominated for Congress, is one of them. He is a "reconstructed rebel" who became a Republican 10 years ago because he was a protectionist, and did not believe in masquerading in the uniform of one party while actually serving another. Henry P. Kernochan, who has been nominated by the Republicans of the First district, was not only a Democrat till very lately, but under the former Cleveland administration was appointed naval officer of the port of New Orleans. There is an interesting story connected with his war experiences. It seems that the majority of his family, New York. At the outbreak of the war sessed of a fine plantation. Denver, Oct. 20.-The State Military board and the company of militia stationea at Grand Junction have locked horns. The Crime Likely to be stade actubiect of Autional Legislation - Carmiers if andling of Postage Stamps-Populism in Toxas and Its Cause.

Washington, Oct. 19 .- No event in crimhal annals in recent time has caused so profound a sensation of surprise and consternation in Washington as the successful "holding up" (to use the western The U paid Grand Jave ion Company phrase which alone adequately describes this hitherto peculiarly western proceeding) of a Southern express train within a very few miles of the national capital. The early stories of the robbery, though inaccurate in some particulars, lose very few of their dramatic dime novel details by the verified accounts of the transaction now coming to hand. The bandits who effected the robbery appear to have been six in number. No stage accessories were wanting. Their faces were covered with red bandanna handkerchiefs, through which holes were cut for their eyes and mouths, and they were the traditional slouch hats pulled down over their fore. heads. It seems impossible that these bold reobers can get away with their plunder, though the difficulties of the pursuit are enhanced by the fact that the crime was perpetrated in one State (Virginia), the robbers immediately escaped to another State (Maryland), and are puite possibly now in a third jurisdiction, not improbably within the limits of the District of Columbia itself. A number of bills were introduced in the last Congress making the "holding up" of trains engaged in inter-State commerce a national offence, punishable under the laws of the United States, but no action beyond mere reference was taken on any of them. This latest crime is likely to call renewed attention to these measures. The United States cannot afford to permit train robbing to become a national peculiarity, as brigandage is, or was till lately, in Southern Italy.

Another criminal matter now in course of development here, in another point of view, is almost as surprising as the great train rolbery. That is the extraordinary looseness disclosed in the care and handling of United States postage stamps at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The argument addressed to the House committee on Postoffices and Post Reads which induced them to authorize the transfer of the printing of United States postage stumps from the private company which had for years satisfactorily performed the work to the Bureau of Printing was that thereby economy would be combined with greater security. The economy consisted in a saving of something less than two cents per thousand stamps. As far as the investigation has progressed, over two hundred thousand stamps have been stolen, some of them of issues not yet put upon the market, and there seems to have been no particular reason why the thieves should not have taken even more, ex-Bank notes.
